Bay Legion Pier hearing set Wednesday at Courthouse

The State Bureau of Marine Resources will conduct a public hearing Wednesday night regarding an American Legion Post No. 139 proposal to improve facilities at its riprap recreational pier in Bay St. Louis.

The public facility extends into the Mississippi Sound from the intersection of South Beach Boulevard and Washington Street.

The pier was subject of a controversy several months ago when access channel dredging work utilizing a Hancock County dragline was halted because the legion had not obtained a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers or bureau permit for the work.

Joe Gill, BMR Wetlands Division chief, at the bureau's Long Beach headquarters confirmed Friday that the 7 p.m. meeting will be in the Hancock County Courthouse second-floor courtroom in Bay St. Louis.

He said the BMR set the hearing, as standard procedure, after receiving two written requests—one from Mrs. Irwin L. Cucully and another from Louise C. Wilkerson, both residents of Citizen Street in Bay St. Louis.

"I don't have an option when we receive an objection, I have to set a hearing," he reported regarding the bureau's operating procedures.

Sheriff seeking duo in Hancock robbery

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Two persons on probation from Hancock County are being sought by law enforcement officers in connection with armed robbery of the Necaise Crossing Bait and Tackle Shop according to Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson on Saturday said, "Raymond P. Alleman Jr., 28, formerly of Waveland and now residing in Pearl River County; and James R. Butler, 31, of Kiln, are being sought in connection with the Necaise Crossing robbery on

"Alleman is alleged to have had a 18 gauge shotgun, and Butler a knife during a robbery in which $150 in cash, some food stamps and checks were taken from the owner of the business located in North Hancock County on

Hwy. 603," Peterson added. An investigation has led to the recovery of the shotgun, getaway vehicle, some food stamps and a check involved in the robbery, Peterson said. "Both are possibily armed and should be considered dangerous. I urge anyone knowing the whereabouts of the two subjects to please call the sheriff's office at 467-5101," Peterson emphasized.

The two are reportedly on probation from Hancock County Circuit Court convictions, and are white males, with Alleman being 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighing 140 pounds and Butler described as being 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighing 180 pounds.

The suspects could possibly be traveling in a 1969 blue Cadillac authorities

The case is being handled by Peterson and Hancock Investigators Alvin Ladner and Delbert Seay.

"This hearing is not just to air objections, but will give the public a chance to air pro and con opinions," Gill stated.

Information gathered from the hearing will be reviewed by the State Wildlife Conservation Commission which will decide if a permit should be issued to the legion, he said. The bureau is a law enforcement branch of the State Department of Wildlife Conservation which is governed by the commission.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' Mobile, Ala. office, which must also issue a permit for the pier work, recently issued a public notice seeking comments and is accepting requests for public hearings regarding the pier

Henry Prevou, Legion Executive Committee member and co-chairman of its Pier Committee, Friday confirmed the Bay organization is attempting to secure a 10-year mainténance permit allowing annual dredging of two fourfoot-deep channels providing access to and from recreational boat launching ramps and a loading dock.

The two 20-foot-wide channels each extend from the north and south sides of the jetty end to nearby deeper water, Prevou noted.

Channel spoil material, to be removed with a dragline, will be placed in a containment area at the end of the pier

JAIL COMMITTEE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors' Citizens Jail Committee Monday will hear porposals from New Orleans architect Nathaniel C. (Buster) Curtis, noted designer of penal institutions. Committee Secretary Lana Noonan said the group will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the supervisors courtinuse meeting room."

(See diagram), he said. New improvements include replacing the present single ramp on the south side with a two-lane concrete launch facility with a walkway between, Prevou reported.

Adjacent to the two-lane launch, a 40-foot-long wooden bulkhead topped with a four-foot-wide dock will provide a loading and unloading facility for recreational boaters, he cited.

Prevou said the dock will help prevent traffic jams at the boat ramps.

In addition, another single-lane 'emergency' concrete boat ramp will be built just north of an existing wooden fishing pier on the east side of the jetty end, the legion co-chairman reported.

"This ramp can be used in case we have a strong west wind causing high waves which would prevent utilizing the double ramp area," Prevou stated. In addition, the emergency ramp will allow an all-weather launching facility for the Hancock County Civil Defense's rescue boat, he reported.

Prevou emphasized the legion pier is strickly a public recreation facility and not for commercial use.

He reported riprap piled along the jetty will be utilized to raise the height of a low section and will also help contain the spoils.

"We're building a better facility for the people to launch their boats," Prevou stated.

He said legion members will donate labor for the improvements and the organization will provide some $3,500 for materials.

The committee co-chairman also revealed the group plans to rebuild the wooden pier which was destroyed by a freak January storm.

He added the pier cost $8,100 to replace when it was destroyed in a prior

The board was in unanimous agreement that in the by-laws of WCFD where it states that the fire chief will hold office until he resigns and cannot be replaced by election—and all officers of the company will hold their positions for life or until retirement at age 65, is not a democratic proceedure. "The majority of fire departments have elections for the position every two years," said one board member.

Walter Gex, attorney for the board. asked Horace Strong, chief of the White Cypress Service, "How does anyone question what you do? Sombody's got to make a determining vote."

Strong responded saying, "I would say this board would be in on that and also the Fire Association."

Peterson said, "John Foucha, Keith Hess, and Scott Spurlock, all aged 18 of Shoreline Park, in addition to three juveniles were arrested this week in connection with the burglary nine vehicles from the local dealerships on Monday and Tuesday nights." Hancock Investigator Delbert Seay said two of the vehicles were dumped into waterways, several in ditches, and two were run into each other and severly damaged, and he estimated damages at $75-100,000.

"In addition to the grand theft auto charges, several burglary charges in Waveland and Shoreline Park incidents have been brought against the six," Peterson said.

Waveland's burglaries involved Peterman's Lil Super, Waveland Seafood and Peppermill Restaurant according to Investigators Robert (Poochy) Tartavoulle and Sandra Henley who is assisting the sheriff's department in the investigations.

Waveland Patrolman Chuck James discovered Renderson Ford's doors open Tuesday night and later found an abandoned station wagon in a ditch on Henderson Street. One vehicle was recovered in Pass Christian, with two by Louisiana State Troopers, and the rest in Hancock County.

Hancock Investigator Alvin Ladner stated, "The arrest of these six persons has led to the clearing up of a lot of burglaries, with many of them being in Shoreline park within the past six mon-

Mayor facing trial on reduced charge

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR. Mayor Larry Bennett of Bay St. Louis will face trial in July on reduced charges as a result of a ruling Wednesday by a Circuit Court judge.

In addition, the ruling drops an indictment against a Hancock County inspector, Donn Murray, charged with conspiring with Bennett to cheat and defraud the City of Bay St. Louis' by allegedly utilizing labor and materials in a street project for work on Bennett's home from Aug. 23-Sept. 3, 1978, Hancock County circuit clerk records indicate.

Place One Circuit Court Judge James Thomas in his order agrees with written arguments by Aaron Adams, a Waveland attorney representing Murray, that the January Hancock Grand Jury conspiracy indictment fails to adequately charge the two officials because the alleged crime occurred. more than two years prior to the indict-

"Prosecution having not commensed within the two-year time limitation imposed, the court has no choice but to quash the indictment," Thomas reports However, the judge ruled the time limitation does not apply to a County Grand Jury fraud indictment against Bennett.

That indictment also stems from the work allegedly performed at the mayor's home.

Bennett's attorney, Joe Sam Owen of Gulfport, argues in his demurrer (arguing that the fraud charge be dropped) that 'fraud as charged was not found within two years after commission of said offense' and the indictment wholly fails to charge a crime cognisable under the applicable statute.

Thomas' orders were filed in chancery clerk's office Thursday. Both attorneys were unavailable comment Friday.

plies to only a small percentage of very wealthy tax-

The fallacy in bureaucratic thinking is construing average farmers as being very wealthy taxpayers. Today a farmer whose land is worth $1,000 an acre would only need 250 acres to have an estate too large to qualify for estate tax exemption. The average U.S. farm is slightly over 400 acres. That figure doesn't take into account the value of a farm's equipment, and buildings. which for an average farmer easily can total close to $1 nillion. Yet, with an average return of 3 or 4 percent per acre, these so-called wealthy farmers might net under $10,000 annually.

The 1981 estate and gift tax reforms passed by Congress would have exempted $70,800 in estate taxes required to be paid by heirs on this size and kind of farming operation. This exemption was designed to eliminate the threat to the survival of farms from one generation to the next.

Under political or reelection pressures many members of Congress have opted to try to balance the budget by increasing taxes in-stead of reducing expenditures. One form of increasing taxes is to freeze previously authorized tax reductions.

A special service will be held this afternoon at the grave site of Mississippi State Trooper Bill Kenny, who was killed in the line of duty.

The service will be at 2 p.m. in St. Mary's Cemetery, Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will be having services throughout the state in memory of those officers who gave their life in the line of duty to mark the beginning of National Police Week.

Many of us knew Bill Kenny, who was reared in Bay St. Louis and served so many years for the Mississiipi Highway Patrol.

We know his wife and son David, a Mississippi State Trooper, will be among those placing a wreath on Bill Kenny's grave.

We hope many of Bill's friends will also join his family today to remember him and all Mississippi State Troopers who have died in the line of duty.

On Wednesday night at 7 p.m. a public hearing is scheduled at the Hancock County Courthouse by the Bureau of Marine Rescources regarding the American Legion's request to improve public recreation facilities at the pier at the head of Washington Street.

The Bureau of Marine Resources received opposition from several persons, so a public hearing is necessary. Since there appears to be persons with different views on the subject of the public facility, we hope parties from both sides will attend the hearing.

This is the democratic process, a time for everyone to express their opinion, if they so desire. We hope to see you at the public hearing.

Much talk is around about how nice our weather has been in recent weeks.

It is a time of year which one can do so many things they are unable to do, especially in the winter.

The longer days are also being enjoyed by many working on their lawns and gardens.

This is our time of the year, if we could only get rid of the gnats.

Administrative attitudes may detract from quality education as much as low pay scales

May 12, 1983 Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Mr. Turcotte's comments concerning teachers' requests for equity in pay and benefits are all too reminiscent of "let." them eat cake." We all know what hap- " " pened to poor Marie Antoinette.

read the recent study on problems in our educational system: salaries are too low to attract science and math teachers; in a technological society such as ours, math and science need to be taught at a young age; and that our attitudes towards our educational system can be equated with handing our enemies the contents of our topsecret files on our technological advantage — because we won't have that advantage very long if we don't improve our educational system.

In my opinion, the teachers I have met and known are decidely well educated, competent professionals. I have great respect for most teachers.

Their's is a hard, often thankless job. But school policies often stymie the best teachers. Administrators and school board members can bring about poor education despite the quality of the faculty. The wealth of a school district does not seem to matter as much as the good will and ingenuity of the administration of

I don't think telling folks to look for a job elsewhere exactly falls into that sound philosophy that seems to work very well for those who use it.

I've read that this management principle in action is why the Japanese are way ahead of us - that and their educational system is decidely not like ours.

I've reared three children and have pened to poor Marie Antoinette:

As far as the Bay St. Louis schools are concerned, it is my opinion that Mr. Turcotte's attitude - which others in the administration office seem to share - is the main problem with the Bay-Waveland schools.

I've met some excellent individuals within the professional ranks at the schools; those individuals can easily obtain employment in higher paid districts - what happens then to the schools our children attend if these people take Mr. Turcotte up on his "offer?"

I think our children will suffer. Surely, there must be a better way to handle matters than that suggested in Mr. Turcotte's comments as reported by the Presidential Vetoes Students of the legislative process sometimes approach the issue of the presidential veto with caution because its role has changed over the years.

Most early presidents, for example, seemed to confine their use of the veto to legislation they considered unconstitutional. James Madison was the first president to exercise a veto because of a policy dispute with Congress, a difference over chartering the Bank of the United States in 1815.

The experts may argue over why presidents use their veto power, but there is no argument over the fact that it is, perhaps, the most effective tool a president has at his command when dealing with Congress.

The veto actually, as some historians have pointed out, makes the president a part of the legislative process, even though his is the executive branch of the federal government. In the hands of a determined president facing a weak and sluggish Congress, the veto becomes an even more potent weapon.

But, when pressed, some Congresses have chosen to override presidential vetoes. The first override was recorded against John Tyler and one of the victims may have been the man who became president more than 25 years later, Andrew Johnson, whose 29 vetoes were overriden 15 times.

On the other hand, only 90 of the 2,361 vetoes cast by all presidents have been overriden by the Congress.

The veto process is an interesting one, starting with when the president is presented with legislation passed by the Congress: He has to either sign it into law within a ten-day period as prescribed in the Constitution or veto it.

Different rules apply depending on whether the Congress is in session or not as to how the veto is handled, just as different presidents use their power in various ways. Franklin Roosevelt has the distinction of returning the most vetoes, 635, while seven presidents never used the power at all.

President Reagan has used the power 15 times so far on a variety of legislation sent to him by Congress. The subjects of these bills ranged from Indian land claims to the widely publicized veto of the bill which would have created a "drug czar" to oversee antidrug laws. He has also vetoes appropriations bills in efforts to keep federal spending in line, a standby gas rationing plan he said was unnecessary and a bill relating to foreign trade.

For many reasons, the veto serves as an effective part of the American system of checks and balances. A safe prediction is that it will remain so.

BEST FACE FORWARD The first days of summer always bring reminders of tourist travel and efforts to expand the economic benefits of tourism. And, with the New Orleans World's Fair just 12 months away, increased emphasis is being placed on the preparation for the onslaught of visitors to and through Mississippi. What better time than now to begin housekeeping chores necessary to enjoy maximum benefits from the increasing number of visitors expected in Mississippi. One of the long-range objectives of the Mississippi Economic Council is the development of a more beautiful state. Now is the time to take steps for achieving that objective.

Here are reminders and suggestions that can be helpful in preparing for our guests:

Bay Knights to close Tootsie Roll Drive today, urge contributions

May 7, 1983 Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

It's Tootsie Roll time again! The money collected by the Knights of Columbus last year was distributed to more than 75,000 mentally retarded in Mississippi. It's the Knights of Columbus way of helping those who cannot help themselves.

Hancock Industries here in Bay St. Louis received over $1,800 from last year's contributions and was matched four-to-one by the federal government. Your contribution was a part of that successful drive and the Knights of Columbus thank you for your generosity.

This year, our Tootsie Roll Drive is scheduled for the week of May 9 through May 15, and we are calling upon the citizens of the Bay-Waveland area to express their generosity again this year.

Charitable donations are sometimes questioned because their administrative cost override the good in-

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT:

HELP FARM SITUATION

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran recently pledged "a concerted effort in Congress to help fund depleted Farmers Home Administration operating programs," Cochran, speaking at a gathering of Mississippi farmers affected by low prices, weather losses and severe economic and credit problems, said he expected "action soon in providing up to $600 million in emergency money for Farmers Home operating loans."

The senator, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on agriculture and rural development. said he is "working closely with my colleagues in the Senate and on the House Appropriations Committee to help expedite this critically-needed legislation."

He told the group in Valley Park, made up of framers from a number of Mississippi counties declared disaster areas due to bad weather during the late fall and winter months, "We were chagrined to learn last week that Farmers Home Administrators in Washington and miscalculated, and there were not enough funds available to make needed loans. In fact, they informed us that 17 states were out of money."

Cochran charged at the Issaquena County meeting, "If they had listened to those of us who warned them last year that a crisis was very likely this Spring, those 17 states, including Mississippi, would not have been out of money."

Earlier in the weekend, the senator was briefed by federal and state emergency relief officials on the flood damage in Mississippi as a result of recent heavy rains.

Following the briefing session in Jackson, the senator toured some of the hard-hit areas, including Hattiesburg, Columbia and Tylertown.

He assured local officials that every effort was being made to expedite disaster assistance to them and their areas and to help those who had suffered damages from the flood waters.

Dr. Michael Smith of Advanced Developments, Inc. presented plans and specs for the construction of Hangar-B at Stennis Airport to the Port and Harbor Commission at their meeting Thursday evening. On Thursday, May 26 the commission will accept plans on bids for hangars.

Smith showed the commission blueprints and explained the plans mentioning that sliding doors would be replaced by bi-fold doors which will be $20,000 cheaper and just as good. The doors will have a wind load of 135 miles per hour. Walls will be strictly sheet metal. The electrical service will be 220 and 12 electric safety lamps will be used in the hangar.

In other business a resolution was passed authorizing proper officers to advertise for bids for the printing of the Port and Harbor Commission's

A resolution was passed authorizing payment in the amount of $21,970 to Montgomery Maintenance for installation of diesel engines.

The commission held discussions on Professional Steel Fabricators unloading coal on property adjacent to Port and Harbor land. Questions were asked whether the commission has the authority set a tarriff to control commerce in the channel.

The commission agreed to request a formal proposal from J. Ed Turner

Ladner said. Ralph Johannessen was originally bed by St. Tammany I talking about these things, I would like to say that when I called the sheriff to find out why he didn't serve the papers on Lawrence Spence for having the fire company's truck, he said he lost them. It took the sheriff 18-hours to move.

Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff, responded by saying, "I want this down for the record, on the same day I received the papers, Spence was arrested. Horace Strong isn't going to tell me how to do my job."

Boudin addressed the board saving. "I think it's important to note that the WCFC members are soliciting funds and telling people that if they don't contribute and if they don't join they won't go to their house. I don't think that's right. These people are all taxpayers and all deserve the same service."

Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner made a motion that if and when the White Cypress Company changes its by-laws and agrees to hold elections next year that the board will pass a resolution to recognize the company. He stated, "I heve that we accept White Cypress's application providing he change his bylaws to read officers will be elected. Go ahead and allow officers presently to stay in office until the next fiscal year which is October." The motion died for want of a second.....

Strong added to the statements by saying, "There are valuable properties that have been solicited for use by the fire company. They will be notified of the decision of the board," he added, "I will recommend that no donations be

In other business, Steve Barrau, representing Jordan River Shores residents, addressed the board concerning the parking of three converted buses on the commercial property at the Jordan River Inn. He said, "About sixteen to twenty-three people including children between the ages of 5 and 9 stayed there for at least a week and a half or two weeks. These people lived there without any kind of sanitary hook-ups. They had to use the Inn's

He asked the question, "Isn't it against the law for children to go into an establishment that serves liquor?

Gex said, "Yes it is against the law and in a case such as this the sheriff's office should have been called. This is not a judiciary board we cannot make a determination on whether somebody's guilty or not. The sheriff's department or Louis Fernandez, county sanitary officer with the health department should have been called."

Peterson added, "I would be glad to personally go out and talk to the owner of the lounge about these problems. I will do it the next time I'm out there."

Philip Langston, Hancock General Hospital administrator, addressed the board with a resolution recommending. that the county construct, equip, and own a new, 65-bed acute care hospital expansion to approximately 100 beds. Further recommended was that the new hospital facility be financed by revenue bonds or other methods of financing not requiring general governmental obligation or additional county facility with support services for future tax revenues. The total cost of the project will be determined by a financial feasibility study to be completed by a recognized CPA accounting firm.

The board moved and seconded the resolution.

In further business the board approved the election of O.J. Moran to the welfare board.

A bid for bridge work was accepted from Gulf Construction Co. for $11,505 for work on Trout Street.

A bid for $8,899.50 was accepted from Charlie Henderson Ford for a heavy duty, 123 half-ton pickup truck.

Martin DeSalvo addressed the board concerning the need for a dog warden in the county. DeSalvo said, "I represent the people and the animals—we should have a dog warden in our area."

DeSalvo emphasized the problems about stray dogs, possibilities of being bitten by a rabid dog and the fact that it could be anyone's child that would have to get 30 shots in the stomach if bitten; by a diseased animal. He went on to say that there are not too many women who can hold off a hungry dog.

Gex told DeSalvo, "What you're going to have to do is to get together with the Bay-Waveland Humane Society." He said, "This board does not authorize protection. Get together with the humane society and come up with a plan then present it to the board."

Free cheese and butter will be distributed on May 26 to persons with medicaid, food stamp, and unemployment cards. Also persons who fit in a 'needy' category can receive cheese and butter without documents if they are proved in need.

The next board of supervisors meeting will be held on June 7.

OUR SINCERE THANKS

For the past 12 years it has been my great privilege to operate Turan-Lane Chevrolet at Bay St. Louis. During that time you have given us a wonderful measure of support and help.

As we move the site of our dealership to Gulfport, we leave with mixed emotions. For us there is a new challenge and an opportunity to expand our automotive sales and service activities to the people of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Yet I will sincerely miss the many good friends and associates with whom I have had daily contact for more than a decade.

However, we leave Bay St. Louis with the sure knowledge that Chevrolet sales and service here are in the capable hands of Frank Hille Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Inc. Our many Chevrolet customers in the area will find Frank Hille to be a fair dealer and a square shooter, and I will personally appreciate your patronage and support of Frank's business.

To all of you, my very sincere thanks.

Minacapelli's to present 'Plaza Suite'

Minacapelli's Dinner the appropriate mood for his Theater in Slidell will feature Neil Simon's comedy "Plaza Suite" opening May 20 for a six week run.

"Plaza Suite" deals with the trials and tribulations of three different sets of occupants of room 719 at the Plaza Hotel in New York City.

How they resolve their problems makes for one of the funniest evenings in theater ever offered.

Act I introduces two well-todo suburbanites, a down-toearth woman whose husband is totally immersed in his business pursuits, and the husband, a middle-aged Peter Pan, whose only fear is that he will grow old. How they deal with their respective problems makes for a touching, funny curtain raiser.

Next comes the "local boy who made good" as a Hollywood producer, return-ing to New York after a 17 year absence to sign a director fo his next film.

Along with this laudable objective, he is also determined to seduce his high school sweetheart, who is married. the mother of three children, and totally star-struck

She is no stranger to Minacapelli's, having convulsed audiences with her comedy performances in "No Sex Please, We're British" and "See How They Run."

Bob Gault is making his first Minacapelli's appearance, but is a veteran of local stage, having appeared to great advantage in "Chapter Two," "Guys & Dolls" and "Night Watch," among others.

As the lecherous producer in Act II, Rick Stephens is returning to Minacapelli's after a which time he was garnering honors, both as an actor and director in local theater. Rosemary Stevens (no relation to Rick), while making her debut at Minacapelli's is also no stranger to local comedy actresses in the area.

Heading up Act III is Ed Brown, well known local performer, who is returning to Minacapelli's after an absence of four years.

One of the foremost comic actors in local theater, Brown has been active at Le Petit and Gallery Circle along with his stellar performances at Minacapelli's. Sylvia Dean will portray the frustrated mother-of-thebride. A native of Boston, Mass., Sylvia has rapidly established herself in the forefront of local performers.

Rounding out the cast will be Laurann Hansen, another local favorite making her debut on the Minacapelli stage, in the dual role of Jean McCormick in Act I and Mimsy the bride in Act III, and Jeffrey Gilbert, a newcomer from Baltimore, who will apnear in various roles in

St. Monica Guild hears oceanographer

Recording Secretary St. Monica Guild

Stewart Nelson, an official with the U.S. Naval Oceanographic Office in Bay St. Louis, was guest speaker on Monday when St. Monica's Guild, Women of Trinity met in the Pass Christian Scenic Drive home of Mrs. John

Nelson captured the imaginations of the group with slides and remarks explaining the fears of ancient people who felt that if they ventured too far into the unknown seas they would either fall off the earth, or be killed by giant sea monsters

Adroitly he made Biblical references to "sails in the sunset" as well as to some of the fishes mentioned in the Bible. (Psalm 107: 23-27 records the terrors of a storm at sea.)

By spanning the centuries, Barbara Bottner is the second Nelson's lecture on sea creatures and animals living in the depts of the waters of planet earth was made more vivid by a rapid succession of

In discussing edible fishes Nelson said: "The Japanese have a proverb: everyone who eats something he has never eaten before prolongs his life by 75 days."

The blow fish of Japan, also known as the procupine fish, is considered by the Japanese as a delicacy, however, if not properly prepared this fish is deadly poison.

Nelson said approximately 250 deaths each year are caused in Japan by the eating of this fish,

Of special interest were remarks made about the great white shark, the hawk-bill turtle and a number of agressive fishes who endanger the sea divers.

In concluding his talk Nelson said: "There are strange things down there (depth of waters) we still have to discover. Life exists to the depth of the oceans. It would seem that everything has a purpose and a place in ecology."

Mrs. Walter A. Martin, program chairman for the group, received compliments on ar-
